Research survey on impact of domestic violence in the workplace
- Sondage sur l'impact de la violence conjugale sur le lieu de travail

CLC, Western University launch first ever nation-wide workplace e-survey	Le CTC et l'Université Western lancent une toute première enquête milieu de travail
The Canadian Labour Congress, working in partnership with researchers at Western University, is launching a national survey on the impact of domestic violence on workers and workplaces, the first-ever survey of its kind in Canada. “The results of this survey will provide made-in-Canada research that will help unions, employers, advocates and governments develop good public policy as well as negotiate workplace supports,” says Barbara Byers, CLC Executive Vice-President. “Unions have worked hard to pressure governments to pass workplace violence legislation that offers some protection for workers experiencing violence at home, but it is still not enough.” More: http://www.canadianlabour.ca/national/news/clc-western-university-launch-first-ever-nation-wide-workplace-survey	Le Congrès du travail du Canada, en partenariat avec des chercheurs de l'Université Western, lance une enquête nationale sur les répercussions de la violence conjugale sur les travailleurs et le milieu de travail. L'enquête est la première du genre au Canada. « L'enquête fournira des données de recherche canadiennes qui aideront les employeurs et les syndicats, les défenseurs des droits et les gouvernements à élaborer des politiques publiques adaptées ainsi qu'à négocier des mesures de soutien en milieu de travail », a déclaré Barbara Byers, vice-présidente exécutive du CTC. « Les syndicats ont exercé de fortes pressions sur les gouvernements pour faire adopter des lois sur la violence au travail qui protègent les travailleuses et travailleurs victimes de violence à la maison, mais cela ne suffit pas. » http://www.congresdutravail.ca/national/nouvelles/le-ctc-et-luniversit-western-lancent-une-toute-premi-re-enqu-te-en-milieu-de-trav
